CAEN LA MER NORMANDIE

CAEN LA MER NORMANDIE HAS A REMARKABLY RICH HERITAGE AND TOURIST POTENTIAL. WITH ITS MEDIEVAL ABBEYS AND CASTLE, MAJOR MEMORIAL POUR LA PAIX WAR MUSEUM AND FINE SANDY BEACHES, IT REALLY HAS EVERYTHING!

Just two hours from Paris, Caen la Mer is an area that combines so many varied tourist assets: the city of Caen, its capital, founded by William the Conqueror in the 11th century; seaside resorts, from Ouistreham Riva-Bella to Lion-sur-Mer; ten kilometres of fine sandy beaches; two marinas; and of course Sword Beach, one of the five D-Day landing beaches. Caen la Mer is so centrally located in the region that it's ideally suited for you to head off to discover the rest of Normandy.

Caen, on a human scale, is packed with great features. There's a marina in the heart of town, plus extensive parks. Along with its rich architectural heritage and cultural life, the city is reputed for its gastronomy (with four Michelin-starred chefs) and lively nightlife (helped by 30,000 students). Caen delights visitors from across the world, who explore its historic abbeys, castle and mansions as well as the Mémorial de Caen, a museum-cum-memorial that helped the place win the title of 'City of Peace' awarded by UNESCO in 1999. The town boasts 81 listed monuments and has been nicknamed in France as 'the town of a hundred bell towers'.

Caen la Mer has proved well capable of hosting globally significant events, demonstrating its skill in this domain, with anniversaries marking the D-Day landings and subsequent Battle of Normandy, and the holding of the World Equestrian Games.

Caen la Mer is open to innovation and new challenges, notably championing three highly competitive sectors: secure electronic transactions (Pôle TES); the automotive industry (with Movéo); and the equine industry (with Hippolia). It fosters several other areas of excellence, notably in health, electronic banking, nuclear physics (with GANIL), the food industry, sailing and aeronautics.

Planned for 2023: The former "Palais Fontette" courthouse will turn into a 4-star hotel and a major conference centre.

HAVRE

A RESOLUTELY MODERN CITY VERY MUCH OPEN TO THE WORLD

Ideally located beside the sea, in the middle of Normandy and just two hours from Paris by train or car, Le Havre is a city open to the world that has developed its capacity as a modern, innovative business tourism destination. The port's centre contains diverse, high-quality facilities and remains on a manageable scale, with everything easily accessible. Visionary architects Perret, Niemeyer and Nouvel helped Le Havre gain UNESCO World Heritage status. This city by the sea has a pioneering spirit. An industrial port and cradle of Impressionism, it boasts France's second-best Impressionist collections (at the harbour-side 1960s glass and steel MuMa museum), hanging gardens above the Seine Estuary, and a two-kilometre-long beach. Le Havre has so many unexpected sides, attracting visitors to this proudly modern city. The Docks Quarter, home to Le Carré des Docks conference centre, so well located where town and port meet, close to train station and trams and at the heart of the maritime and logistics university, reflects Le Havre's regeneration and ambition, as does the new Océane Stadium, another architectural achievement in this positively energetic port.

As the harbour at the mouth of the Seine Valley and the leading French port for container traffic, specialists at Le Havre have developed exceptionally skilled know-how in numerous areas, notably port logistics.

Le Havre's Zone Industrielle Portuaire is one of France's major industrial zones, home to varied specialist sectors, from aeronautics, cars, chemicals, energy and engineering to eco-industries...

In addition, the city has developed as a centre of excellence in further education for careers linked to logistics, port activities and international trade – another major asset for this port turned towards the sea.
